Tried and tested FACE PROFILING

What it is Apparently your face - not your eyes - is the window to your soul, as its structure, lines and shape reflect your personality, attitudes, spending style, life priorities and more.

The experience Marthie took a photo of me and digitally cut the image in half (from the forehead to the chin) on her computer. She duplicated the halves and then repositioned them to create two new faces - one made up of the two 'left' halves (representing my personal traits) and the other 'rights' (representing my social traits). She then analysed the images. The analysis reaffirmed things

I already knew, like the fact that I don't suffer fools, that I am a bit too free about giving others my time and that I'm often the ear my friends come to for advice.

The verdict It was constructive and helpful (even though it can be quite tough to hear things about yourself you don't want to admit to). And it even boosted my confidence by confirming my talents.

Need to know A one-hour consultation costs R350. Marthie is based in Pretoria, but also offers on-line consultations.
